JEWISH STATISTICS

The statistics of Jews in the world rests largely upon estimates. In Russia, Austria-Hungary, Germany, and a few other countries, official figures are obtainable. In the main, however, the numbers given are based upon estimates repeated and added to by one statistical authority after another. In spite of the unsatisfactoriness of the method, it may be assumed that the numbers given are approximately correct.

For the statistics given below various authorities have been consulted, among them the "Statesman's Year Book" for 1903, the English "Jewish Year Book" for 5663, and the "Jewish Encyclopedia." Some of the statements rest upon the authority of competent individuals. The Jews of Turkey include 78,000 for Palestine, according to the calculation recently made for the "Verein für jüdische Statistik," in a monograph contributed to its first publication, "Jüdische Statistik."

THE UNITED STATES

As the census of the United States has, in accordance with the spirit of American institutions, taken no heed of the religious convictions of American citizens, whether native-born or naturalized, all statements concerning the number of Jews living in this country are based upon estimate, though several of the estimates have been most conscientiously made.

The following table by States is a modification of that given in the Year Book for 5663, by reason of changes in the estimated populations of four States, California, Colorado, Connecticut, and Delaware. The "Jewish Encyclopedia" estimates the population of California at 28,000; of Colorado at 5800; of Connecticut at 5500; and of Delaware at 928.

For a more detailed statement of Jewish immigration into the United States, see the YEAR BOOK for 5660, pp. 283-284.

2 392,322 in Prussia.
This alphabetical list is designed to provide a selection of the most important publications, on Biblical and later Jewish topics, which have appeared between July, 1902, and July, 1903. Some descriptive notes have been added in certain cases. No periodicals are included, and no magazine articles, unless they subsequently appeared in separate form. Works of fiction are also omitted. It has been thought undesirable to print a full list of the flood of pamphlets published on "Babel-Bibel" in reply to Friedrich Delitzsch. As to the principles on which books have been admitted to this list, it may be said that limits of space permitted the inclusion only of (a) those of great intrinsic importance, and (b) those which, from the significance of their subject, and the rarity of literature upon it, deserved mention apart from other considerations. As in previous years, a large proportion of the works entered in the list have passed through the compiler’s hands.

Makes elaborate attempt to use Aramaic Targum and Rabbinical literature to explain some of the most characteristic expressions in the gospels. Especially full on the “Bath-Kol” (Voice from Heaven), the Rabbinical passages on which are collected and discussed. Many ingenious and original suggestions on the basis of these passages. In Appendix IV, Pinner’s collection of Bath-Kol passages is reprinted. Also much interesting material on and suggestive illustration of the Baptism, Transfiguration, the “Dove,” and so forth.

Israel Abrahams. See A. Lucas and I. Abrahams; also D. Yellin and I. Abrahams.

A. Ackerman. Judentum und Christentum (Leipzig, M. Kaufmann, 1903).

Contents: Reports, Address by President (C. Adler). References to Jews in the Diary of Ezra Stiles (M. Jastrow); A method of determining the Jewish population of large cities in the United States (G. E. Barnett); Jewish Activity in American Colonial Commerce (M. J. Kohler); The Jews of Georgia in Colonial Times (L. Hühner); the Cincinnati Community in 1825 (D. Phillipson); New Light on the Career of Col. D. S.
Franks (O. S. Straus); Sampson Isaacs (M. S. Isaacs); The Damascus Affair of 1840 and the Jews of America (J. Jacobs); S. Heydenfeldt: A Jewish Jurist of Alabama and California (A. M. Friedenberg); The Jews in Curaçao (G. H. Cone). Notes, Necrology, Index.

R. Anderson. The Bible and Modern Criticism (New York, Revell, 1903).

An attack on the modern theories.

For school use. After each passage come statement of contents and notes on the Hebrew, especially with reference to Biblical parallels. The Hebrew text is not given; only a German translation.

New theory of Totemism, etc.

W. Bacher. Die Agada der Tannaiten (Strassburg, 1903).

Second edition of Vol. I, dealing with the Tannaim from Hillel to Akiba (30 B. C. E. to 135 C. E.).

See also Henning Martin. These Penitential Hymns present an even more interesting problem for Bible students than does the Code of Hammurabi.

E. Barneth. Mischnaioth, Seder Moed, Pesachim (Berlin, Itzkowski, 1903).

Part XXXIV of the complete edition of Mishnah, with pointed Hebrew text, German translation, and Notes.

With 32 illustrations. Accepts traditional identification of the Praetorium with the Antonia citadel.

On the "Imitatio Dei" as the principle of religion and ideal of spiritual perfection.

Illustrated.

E. Baumann. Der Aufbau der Amosreden (Giessen, Ricker, 1903).

A. Bertholet. Die Bücher Esra und Nehemia (Tübingen, Mohr, 1902).

Part of Marti's "Kurzer Hand-Commentar zum Alten Testament."
Two vols., with plates and maps. Complete history of the Seleucid dynasty. Maccabean period included.

C. N. BIALIK. Poems (Hebrew) (Warsaw, Tushia, 1902).
Notable Ghetto studies.

L. BLAU. Studien zum althebräischen Buchwesen und zur biblischen Litteraturgeschichte.
Prefixed to the twenty-fifth "Jahresbericht der Landes-Rabbinerschule in Budapest" (1902).

Full description of the discoveries at Tell Zakariya, Tell eš-Šāfī, Tell ej-Judeideh, and Tell Sandahannah; discussion of the Pottery; Folk-Lore; chapter on the Limestone Inscriptions at Tell Sandahannah by Professor Wünsche. With 96 illustrations in text, and 102 plates.

J. BOEHMER. Der alttestamentliche Unterbau des Reiches Gottes (Leipzig, Hinrichs, 1902).

Religious influences (including Judaism). Seven Vols.

An elaborate work, but not based on a full examination of sources at first hand (see Perles below); nor is account taken of recent Jewish criticism of Weber and Schürer. Contents (I) sources; (II) rise of Jewish pietism and its organization into a Church; (III) the national limitation of the Jewish religion; (IV) individual belief and theology; (V) various forms of the Jewish pietism; (VI) the religious-historical problem. The work covers a very wide ground in its 526 pages.

A reply to the criticism of F. Perles (q.v.).

S. Buber. "‘חָיְי יִשְׂרָאֵל’" (Cracow, Fischer, 1903).

Biographies and epitaphs of notabilities of Zolkiew. Alphabetically arranged in Hebrew.

Part of Marti's "Kurzer Hand-Commentar zum Alten Testament."

Holds that, on the whole, the king was regarded as a divinely given blessing. This did not, however, preclude the people from judging their kings sometimes unfavorably.

C. A. Bugge. Die Haupt-Parabeln Jesu (Giessen, Ricker, 1903).

For the use of students. The Notes are both philological and critical, with constant reference to the Versions. Discusses, in the Introduction, the structure of "Kings," the characteristics of the chief ancient versions, and the synchronisms of the compiler. In the Appendix are the Moabite Stone, the Siloam Inscription, the Monolith Inscription of Shalmaneser II, a fragment of the annals of the same king, and the Taylor Cylinder with narrative of Sennacherib's Third Campaign (B.C. 701).

Illustrated.

Spirited account of growth of freedom of thought on the literary history of the Bible, and the reconciliation of modern views with a religious attitude towards Scripture.

Introduction, with select lists of words and phrases by the former, and an Appendix on laws and institutions by the latter. A full account of the basis and method of the "higher criticism" as applied to the Pentateuch and to Joshua.
SELECTED HEBRAICA AND JUDAICA

Contents: (1) The Religion of Time and the Religion of Eternity (W); (2) The Education of the Religious Imagination (C); (3) The Significance of Unitarianism as a Theology (W); (4) The Place of Immortality in Religious Belief (C); (5) The Fear of God and the Sense of Sin (W); (6) The Place of the History of Religion in Theological Study (C); (7) Three Ways of Salvation (C); (8) The Liberal Faith (C); (9) The Relation of Jesus to his Age and our own (C); (10) Sociology and Theology (W); (11) The Study of Theology and the Service of Man (C); (12) Religion and Society (W).

Reprint of Mrs. Lucas's translation of Cassel's "Leitfaden für den Unterricht in der jüdischen Geschichte und Literatur." English version originally appeared in 1883. Cassel covers, in 280 small pages, the whole range from the early Biblical period to the most recent events.

D. Castelli. (Florence, 1902).

Collection of addresses in memory of D. Castelli (d. Jan. 14, 1901), with a list of his writings.

Though he held that the Cabbala, in its developed form, dates only from the thirteenth century, Castelli saw in earlier ideas some of the sources of the Cabbalistic theory. He discusses angels, spirit, the Logos, the Middoth (divine attributes), Bath-Kol, Divine name, Metatoron, the "family on high" (angelic court), the mystic value of the alphabet.

The editor published an English translation previously in the Jewish Quarterly Review (1893, 4, 5). He has now revised it, and added notes. The book, according to Charles, was written between 135 and 96 B. C.

Part I. Isaiah and Jeremiah; Part II. Ezekiel and the Minor Prophets; Part III. First and Second Samuel.

Suggests many emendations on the theory that the name "Jerahmeel" originally stood in a large number of passages.

Concise Bible Dictionary. (Cambridge, University Press, 1902).

Based on Cambridge Companion to the Bible.

Suggests that the Bible was originally written on cuneiform tablets.

150 inscriptions including seals and gems, printed in Hebrew type, with critical and exegetical notes. Appendix contains Sidonian and Elephantine inscriptions. XIV Plates including tables of alphabets. First English work of its kind.

An attempt to use modern Semitic custom to arrive at ancient origins; especially new theory of sacrifices.

Contribution to the history of the mission to the Jews.

Posthumous publication. Frontispiece, author's portrait. Contents: Biblical Theology; Wisdom of the Hebrews; Hosea; Amos; the Second Psalm; Psalm LXXII; Psalm CX; the English Bible and its Revision; Mohammed and Islam; Arabic Poetry; Modern Religion and Old Testament Immortality; the Rationale of a Preacher; the Uses of the Old Testament for Edification.

Sermons on the "calls" to various characters in the Old and the New Testament. Another posthumous publication.

With a portrait of Ewald.

English translation, with introduction, by Rev. C. H. W. Johns, of Delitzsch's two lectures. Delitzsch repeats well-known facts, but exaggerates the conclusions to be drawn from them. The inspiration of the Bible has never been made dependent on the "originality" of all its contents. Thus Maimonides, in his "Guide," regards not only the Biblical sacrificial system, but also important elements of the Hebrew marriage code, as borrowed from earlier peoples.

SELECTED HEBRAICA AND JUDAICA

Arabic original; revised Hebrew version; notes.

Ninety-two beautiful colored pictures by the former, and descriptive narrative by the latter.

Contents: Part I. the Land (The Color of the Land; the Desert; the Lie of the Land; the Waters of Israel; Brown Villages, White Towns and a Grey City). Part II, the Invaders (Israelite, Roman, Christian, Moslem, Crusader). Part III, the Spirit of Syria (The Lighter Side of Things; the Shadow of Death; the Spectral; the Land of the Cross; Resurrection). Takes a favorable view of future possibilities in Palestine.

Semi-critical, but relies on the actual data of personal religious experience in Scripture for a key to the historical problems of inspiration.

S. Funk. Die Juden in Babylonien 200-500 (Berlin, Poppelauer, 1902).

The Talmudic period. Culture, political condition, religious organization.

Series of 94 full-page portraits (mostly well reproduced) of Jewish poets from the time of Wessely (1725) to the present day. The title "Hebrew" does not quite correspond to the contents, as writers in Yiddish, English and other modern languages are included. Of authors associated with America and England, there are portraits of Emma Lazarus, Nina Salaman, J. Chotzner, N. Imber, J. L. Landau, I. Rabinowitz, M. Reisherson, M. Rosenfeld, and I. Zangwill.

The MS. on which is based this new edition of the Targum of Jonathan ben Uzziel to the Pentateuch is Italian; it belonged to the Almansi collection, and was written in the sixteenth century. A full description of the MS. appeared in the Jewish Quarterly Review, XI, p. 167.

With diagrams and tables.

Text used is the editio princeps, Venice, 1520-3; variants from Munich MS.; German translation and notes. Tractate Shebuoth.

Description of a Hebrew MS. of the magical “key” in the writer's possession. Hebrew previously believed lost.

Contents: “The Providential Guidance of Israel” (O. Seligmann); Moses and Lycurgus (Ottendorff); Ancient Israelite State (Vogelstein); Jonah and Ruth (Samuel); Address on Chanukah (Frank); Sects in Judaism (Rülf); Philo (S. Kaufmann); Onkelos (L.
