The 1980 AMERICAN JEWISH YEAR BOOK, the eightieth in the series, continues to offer a unique chronicle of developments in areas of concern to Jews throughout the world.

The present volume contains three feature articles. In "Jews, Nazis, and Civil Liberties," David Dalin examines the impact on the Jewish community of the revival of neo-Nazi activities in the United States. Steven Cohen's "Trends in Jewish Philanthropy" presents a bleak picture of the outlook for Jewish communal giving. In "Israelis in the United States: Motives, Attitudes, and Intentions," Dov Elizur brings a social-science perspective to bear on an important phenomenon on the current Jewish scene.

The review of developments in the United States includes Murray Friedman's "Intergroup Relations"; George Gruen's "The United States, Israel, and the Middle East"; William Korey's "The American Reaction to the Shcharansky Case"; and Walter Ackerman's "Jewish Education Today."

American Jewish Year Book

The review of developments in the United States includes Murray Friedman’s “Intergroup Relations”; George Gruen’s “The United States, Israel, and the Middle East”; William Korey’s “American Reaction to the Shcharansky Case”; and Walter Ackerman’s “Jewish Education Today.” Alvin Chenkin and Maynard Miran provide revised U.S. Jewish population estimates, while S.P. Goldberg covers Jewish communal services.

Jewish life around the world is reported on in a series of articles dealing with Israel, Canada, Argentina, Great Britain, France, Germany, the Soviet Union, Poland, Rumania, and South Africa. New estimates for the world Jewish population are given.

Carefully compiled directories of national Jewish organizations, periodicals, and federations and welfare funds, as well as religious calendars and obituary notices, round out the 1980 AMERICAN JEWISH YEAR BOOK.

We are very grateful to our colleague Joan Margules for technical and editorial assistance. Thanks are also due to Cyma M. Horowitz, director of the Blaustein Library, Lotte Zajac, and all our other co-workers in the Information and Research Department.

Morris Fine’s association with the YEAR BOOK began some years before 1946–47, when his name first appeared on the title page. Now he has retired as editor. For his colleagues to praise him is to praise themselves by praising the YEAR BOOK, and Solomon said, “Let another praise you, but not your own mouth.” On the other hand, Solomon also said, “To tell the truth is to further justice.” For close to forty years now, whatever merit the YEAR BOOK has had has been very largely Morris Fine’s doing. We shall try to maintain his standards.
